Do I have to write learning outcomes for all of my lessons?

"Imagine you're very experienced in your subject area and can teach the content off the top of your head. Is it okay to teach without writing learning outcomes? That's pretty much the only question in this quiz, but you might be surprised by the journey it can take you on..."

I'M UP FOR THE JOURNEY. LET'S GO.

6. (1) Click 'Questions', then (2) paste in or type your question. (3) Add correct and false answers, yes/no, etc.
7. (4) Click 'Set the correct answer'.

- Say which answer is correct, then add the text you'll present learners with if they get the answer wrong. You may also wish to add here what they should do next to plug any learning gaps. This might also include links to further differentiated resources.

A Answer A ✓

B Answer B

 EXPLANATION OF CORRECT ANSWER (OPTIONAL)

This content will be displayed after the question is answered.

Type here the explanation learners need if they get the answer wrong...

 REVEAL CORRECT ANSWERS

Choose if you would like to reveal the correct answer immediately after a user selects an answer to a quiz question. (Note: this setting is the same for ALL questions).

- Yes, reveal the correct answer after every question
- No, do not reveal the correct answer after every question

- At the bottom of the above screenshot, you can click yes or no to revealing the correct answer after every question.
- Click 'Save'.
- Click 'Publish' in the top right of the screen, then click 'Publish as is' (this is free).
- Finally, copy the link code and send it via email, paste it into the Zoom chat window, or use it as a link on a webpage. Here is a link to the pre-learning quiz for the Learning Outcomes session:
